

ABSTRACT

The invention relates to a method which is used to efficiently mark proteins with the help of a micromixer, in addition to a device that enables said inventive method to be carried out in an economical manner and with additional auxiliary agents.